

JESUS HELPS A ROMAN SOLDIER

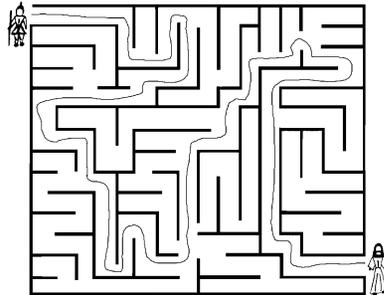

[Capernaum] — As he went from town to town, Jesus showed that he was ready to help all kinds of people. His followers may have been surprised that he was even willing to help a Roman soldier. The people hated Roman soldiers because they were the real police department in the country. Sometimes they were cruel to the people and took away their freedom.

When a Roman soldier came to Jesus asking for help for his sick servant, Jesus did not scold him. Instead, Jesus gave the soldier credit for having faith in the true God. He went with the soldier to his house. When they arrived the soldier trusted Jesus so much he even asked him to heal his servant without going inside. Jesus told the soldier that he was helping him because his trust in God was so great.

Gus the Gospel Gopher says: "When I want something badly enough I can always find my way to where it is. That's what happened to the Roman soldier in today's Gospel story. He wanted to get help from Jesus, so he found his way to where Jesus was. You can help him. Draw a line with your pencil, starting with the Roman soldier, and ending where Jesus is teaching."
