

Praxis Learns To Serve

Key Word: Example

Key Verse: "For I have set you an example, that you also should do as I have done to you."
John 13:15

"Praxis!" called his mother. "Come and help me."

Praxis groaned. He didn't want to help. He was having a great game with some of his friends. He turned a naughty shade of orange and put his finger to his lips, to warn his pixie friends to be quiet. Then he snuck off and hid.

Praxis' mother came around the corner. "Have you seen Praxis?" she asked the pixie children. They silently shook their heads.

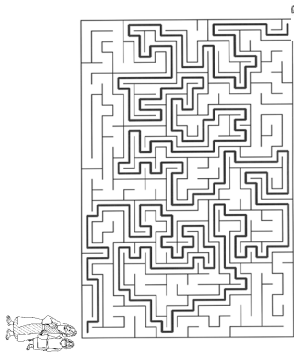

"That naughty pixie!" exclaimed his mother. "We have the Wise Old Pixie coming to tea. It's such an honor, but I need Praxis to set the table for me, while I bake the cakes."

Praxis groaned even more. He loved and admired the Wise Old Pixie, who was the most important pixie in the whole kingdom, but he hated household chores.

His friends had melted away, so Praxis slipped away by himself and climbed a tree. Then he played with some acorn marbles. Then he knocked on some pixie doors and ran away and hid before the door was opened. Then he began to do all sorts of naughty tricks.

At last, as the sun went down, Praxis sauntered home, looking forward to tea with the Wise Old Pixie.

"I'm home, Mom," he shouted, adding, "Can I help?" as he pretended he knew nothing about his mother's guest.

But to his surprise, the Wise Old Pixie came into the room wearing an apron, and began to set the table.

"Wh - what are you doing?" faltered Praxis.

"Setting the table for your tea," answered the Wise Old Pixie. "I've baked some scones for you while your mother baked cakes. Now I'm helping to get the room ready."

Praxis was so embarrassed that he turned scarlet. The Wise Old Pixie was the honored guest. But he was doing Praxis' chores. Praxis felt very small and didn't enjoy his tea one bit.

After tea he jumped up and began to collect the plates.

"What are you doing?" asked his mother. "I'm going to wash up," replied Praxis. "And I'm always going to help you from now on."

And do you know, after that he always did.
