

Fluffy Cat Betrays Toby Mouse

Key Word: Betrayed

Key Verse: Now Judas, who betrayed him, also knew the place, because Jesus often met there with his disciples. John 18:2

Fluffy Cat loved her little friend Toby Mouse. When the family came near, Fluffy Cat would hide Toby Mouse's mousehole by settling down against that part of the baseboard, so that nobody in the family knew that Toby Mouse existed. When the family disappeared again, Fluffy Cat and Toby Mouse would have such games, racing around the kitchen, chasing each other until they were so tired that they snuggled up together.

But for one so small, Toby Mouse was strong willed. He didn't always agree with Fluffy Cat. This infuriated Fluffy Cat so much that sometimes she rose to a peak of anger.

One day Fluffy Cat asked Toby Mouse to be quiet. Fluffy Cat was curled up on a cushion in the kitchen, trying to sleep. Toby Mouse took no notice whatsoever. He was listening to loud music on his CD player, and dancing, twisting, swirling to the music. He made Fluffy Cat's head ache.

Toby Mouse stuck out his tongue at Fluffy Cat in a rude gesture. When she crouched with a mean look in her eye, he simply danced out of her reach. He hoped that she would chase him, because he was wishing for a game. But Fluffy Cat didn't chase him. Instead, she hatched a plot. She pretended to be so friendly with Toby Mouse that she didn't mind what he did, even though she regarded the kitchen as her own. When she heard the family come in, she didn't warn Toby Mouse as she usually did. Instead, she chased him into his hole, making sure that the family saw her. Then she settled down by the baseboard, but with her nose pointing to Toby Mouse's mousehole.

Toby Mouse thought he was safe, as usual. He whistled and sang in his little home, then he danced right out again. But the family had placed a mousetrap outside his front door. When Toby Mouse danced out, he was caught by the tail in the trap. Poor Toby Mouse! And poor Fluffy Cat, for she was horrified by the result of her treachery. Now she had lost the only friend she ever had.
